Willis Towers Watson and PARIMA Launches Risk Lab Series

PARIMA announced its collaboration with Willis Towers Watson for the Risk Lab educational programme series during its conference in Manila last 28th March. The Risk Lab is opening its first session in Manila on April 28, 2017, to be followed by sessions in Shanghai, Taipei and Singapore.

The Risk Lab series is a one-day joint educational initiative launched by Willis Towers Watson and PARIMA to promote professional development for people with responsibility for risk and insurance in the Asia-Pacific Region.

“We are a nation that is constantly exposed to a myriad of risks and Filipino firms have become more sophisticated in their risk mitigation efforts,” says James Matti, Head of the Philippines, Willis Towers Watson. “As analytical brokers, we see the challenges from an increasingly interconnected and diverse risk landscape. Given these complexities within a nation already flagged by UNISDR as one of the top ten countries with the most number of people affected by disasters, the importance of a robust risk management discipline to enable sustainable business growth has never been more critical. As risk industry advocates, we are pleased to partner with PARIMA to provide a professional development pillar for the industry through our Risk Lab workshop,” he adds.

The Manila session would cover four risk topics, namely Strategic Risk, Operational Risk, Business Continuity and Human Capital Risk. Each would be divided into three parts, 1) summary, 2) break-out session and a 3) debate and learning opportunity.

PARIMA’s Executive Director Stacey Huang also adds, “Continuous professional education in APAC is not always readily available for risk managers in the region. We are excited about the Risk Lab because the topics and format are designed for risk professionals in APAC. We take a topic such as Operational Risk and break it down into theory and then practical application through the use of case studies and hands-on exercises. This provides a more tangible outcome than just listening to speeches and presentations and allows risk managers to learn more effectively.”

The Risk Lab series is one of two educational programmes co-run by PARIMA. For more information on the Willis Towers Watson-PARIMA Risk Lab series, please visit <http://parima.org/wtw-risklab>.
